CITY OF REDMOND
APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS FOR:
PLANNED RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENTS
(PRD)

Project _____

Date _____

Applications delivered by courier or by mail will not be accepted.

Please note that the submittal requirements noted below may change periodically. To assure that you have the most current requirements, please contact the City of Redmond Permit Center at 425-556-2473. These submittal requirements are dated January 1, 2003.

I. PURPOSE

The primary purpose of a PRD is to enhance the design of a residential development by allowing for flexibility and variation from the established site requirements and development standards of the Redmond Community Development Guide (RCDG). An applicant may elect to undergo either a one-step or a two step process for a PRD. A one-step approval process would include the City's review of the general project concept through the PRD process including its intensity, overall design, and all specific site and development requirements associated with the proposed development. A two step approval process would first seek approval of an overall project design and concept through the Master Planned Residential Development (MPRD) process before extending significant time and resources in developing the specific site and development features of the proposal. (An MPRD may be appropriate where larger sites are involved and where development issues are more complex, and an initial, more comprehensive review and approval process is more appropriate. Refer to RCDG Section 20C.30.105-030 for further information regarding the PRD and MPRD processes). The application submittal requirements outlined within this handout are for a one-step PRD application.

PRD's must be processed concurrent with implementing subdivision or binding site plan review. A separate application and submittal requirements for the subdivision or binding site plan must be provided with the application for a PRD.

II. APPLICABILITY/REVIEW PROCESS

Planned Residential Developments are allowed only in residential (R) zones of the City. The PRD process may not be applied to single family lots which are incapable of further subdivision, and may not serve as a means of avoiding procedures more appropriately reviewed under the provisions of Section 20F.20.190, Variances. For non-residential zones of the City, where a planned development consisting of both commercial and residential uses is proposed, the Planned Commercial Development process may be appropriate.

The Technical Committee, composed of the Departments of Planning and Public Works, reviews all PRD plans for compliance with the State Environmental Policy Act and the Redmond Community Development Guide. The Design Review Board, a seven member board appointed by the Mayor and City Council, also reviews the application for compliance with the Design Standards outlined within RCDG Section 20D.40. The Technical Committee and Design Review Board then issue a recommendation to the Hearing Examiner based upon their review. The Hearing Examiner in turn, issues a recommendation to the City Council for final review and approval.

Please Note: In order to help work out potential problems before formal submittal, the City of Redmond strongly encourages applicants to schedule pre-application conferences with the Technical Committee and Design Review Board. The applicant, at a minimum, should provide a sketch of the proposed application for preliminary review. The sketch should be drawn to scale and be reasonably accurate. It may be prepared by the applicant. Conferences may be scheduled by calling the Permit Center.

The applicant shall check each item below to confirm the item is included in the application. A Planned Residential Development application shall include the following:

III. PROFESSIONAL PREPARATION

All components of the Planned Residential Development applications shall be prepared by the appropriate professional(s) licensed in the State of Washington. A license stamp or registration number, whichever is applicable, as well as the signature, shall be provided on the face of PRD application materials.
